CHATRAPATI SHIVAJI MAHARAJ

The great Maratha warrior king, is remembered as one of India's most visionary leaders and freedom icons. Born in 1630, he established the Maratha Empire and inspired a spirit of self-rule (Swarajya) long before the formal independence movement began. Known for his brilliant military strategies, naval power, and administration rooted in justice and welfare, Shivaji Maharaj stood as a symbol of courage and resistance against oppressive rule. His ideals of protecting people's rights, respecting all communities, and building a strong, independent nation laid the foundation for India's later freedom struggle. This hall honors his enduring legacy of bravery, vision, and self-determination.

RANI LAXMI BAI

Rani Lakshmibai of Jhansi, the fearless warrior queen, remains one of the most iconic symbols of India's freedom struggle. Born in 1828, she became a legend for her unmatched bravery during the Revolt of 1857. Leading her army against the British, she fought fiercely on horseback, often with her young son tied to her back, inspiring generations with her courage and sacrifice. Her famous call, "I shall not give up my Jhansi," echoed the spirit of resistance and self-rule. Rani Lakshmibai's legacy as a warrior, leader, and patriot continues to ignite the flame of courage in every Indian. This hall honors her fearless spirit and undying devotion to freedom.

SHAHID BHAGAT SINGH

Shahid Bhagat Singh, one of India's most fearless revolutionaries, became a legend of courage and sacrifice in the struggle for independence. Born in 1907, he dedicated his life to fighting colonial oppression, inspiring the youth of India with his bold ideas and actions. His role in the Central Legislative Assembly protest and the sacrifice of his life at just 23 years of age made him an eternal symbol of bravery and patriotism. With his vision of an independent, equal, and just India, Bhagat Singh continues to inspire generations. This hall celebrates his fiery spirit, fearless resistance, and undying love for freedom.

NETAJI SUBHASH CHANDRA BOSE

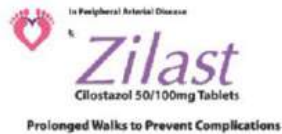

Netaji Subhas Chandra Bose, one of the most dynamic leaders of India's freedom movement, remains a symbol of determination, leadership, and patriotism. Born in 1897, he believed that freedom could not be begged for—it had to be won through courage and action. As the founder of the Indian National Army (INA), his call "Give me blood, and I will give you freedom" inspired thousands to join the fight against colonial rule. A visionary strategist and fearless leader, Netaji ignited a national spirit of unity and sacrifice. This hall honors his indomitable will and his dream of a free, powerful India.
